

Retroactive to March 1

5% pay increase okayed for Upland city workers

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

The Upland City Council granted a pay increase of 5 percent late Friday afternoon for all of the city's some 230 employees.

Mayor George Gibson said the pay increase, which is retroactive to March 1, was adopted in part to combat a recently high turnover rate for city employees.

He said the city has lost "quite a few" police officers, and Finance Director Anthony Andrade noted turnovers have affected "every department."

Andrade told the council the pay increase for all employees comes to $80,580 from March 1 to June 30, the period covered in the new "memorandums of understanding."

The memorandums are the city's equivalent of a labor contract in private industry. Projected over a year, the 5 percent raise comes to $241,740.

Upland reached memorandums of understanding with its firefighters and miscellaneous employees (all non-safety personnel who are not considered part of management).

Both the firefighters and the miscellaneous employees are represented by Local 690 of the Service Employees International Union AFL-CIO.

The third city employee group, the Upland Police Officers Association, reached no memorandum with the city, but the raise covers the police officers as well.

City Manager Lee Travers said the police association requested continued negotiations on a pay increase retroactive to last July 1 as condition for reaching the agreement.

City Attorney Donald Maroney said the council would have had to stipulate the possibility of the retroactive pay increase last July in order to consider the association's request.

"And, therefore, it would simply be a gift of the taxpayers' money to make anything retroactive that far," he said.

The pay increase can be retroactive to March 1 because that date is part of the current pay period. City employees have two pay periods each month.

In addition to the three employee groups, the council granted the 5 percent increase to management personnel.

In separate actions, the council approved 5 percent increases for the city manager and city clerk. Upland's only full-time elected official.

Travers will now earn $3,098 a month. City Clerk Dee Carpenter will make $1,444 a month.

Mayor Pro Tem John McCarthy, a former Upland police captain, abstained from voting on the raise for police officers. Otherwise, the pay increase for all groups passed unanimously with all five council members present.

Upland has 38 firefighters, 56 police officers, 92 miscellaneous employees and 44 management employees, according to the latest figures supplied by the personnel office.

Unlike many cities and other governmental entities throughout California, Upland was under no compulsion to grant pay increases or return to the bargaining table because of the state Supreme Court decision Feb. 15 overturning a provision of last year's Proposition 13 bail-out legislation.

The law (SB 154) had prohibited local governments from receiving their share of more than $4 billion in state surplus funds if employee cost-of-living raises exceeded those for state workers.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. vetoed pay increases for most state workers.

However, Upland reached agreements with its three employee groups for the city to contribute $15 a month per employee toward a dental plan. The agreements were reached in lieu of pay increases.

Andrade noted Upland usually considers pay increases later in the year, but the pay freeze's elimination and the number of turnovers helped prompt the council action Friday night.

Upland okays land purchase for water plant

Upland is buying 14 acres of land in the northwest part of the city as the first step toward building a water filtration plant for the day when Northern California water is needed to augment its local supplies.

The city council has authorized spending nearly $320,000 for the land at the southwest corner of Benson Avenue and 18th Street now owned by the San Antonio Land Co.

Harry Rohrbach, Upland's water utility director, said, "It has always been an accepted fact that one day we would need to use imported water to supplement local supplies."

Because of growth in the city, that day could come in about five years, he added.

Rohrbach noted the city has no set plans or timetable yet for building the filtration plant that would treat Feather River water traveling south by the California Aqueduct.

Officials have been considering a plant with a capacity of treating 10 million gallons a day, he said. Rohrbach added that the plant would be designed to be expandable.

He and Upland Mayor Pro Tem John McCarthy noted the Monte Vista County Water District has expressed interest in joining the project.

McCarthy said several cities and agencies might end up sharing the cost of building the plant.

Rohrbach said at today's dollars his "guesstimate" is that a 10-million-gallon-a-day filtration plant would cost roughly $4 million.

McCarthy, who serves on the council's water and sewer committee, told the council Monday night the site is "imperative" for Upland's future water needs.

The site is just north of the city's 17th Street reservoir, and Rohrbach called the location "probably the best one available."

He said the reservoir would serve as the distribution point.

A 10-foot-diameter pipeline known as the Rialto Reach portion of the Foothill Feeder runs from the Devil's Canyon power plant just north of San Bernardino to La Verne, Rohrbach said.

In Upland, the pipeline — belonging to the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California — travels along 18th Street.

Rohrbach explained that the city would purchase the water indirectly from the state through the Chino Basin Municipal Water District, which in turn would deal with the Metropolitan Water District.

Upland's annual water consumption is currently about 13,000 acre-feet (one acre-foot equals 325,850 gallons), but the city's projected annual consumption at ultimate development is 21,000 acre-feet, Rohrbach said.

He noted the city would use the more expensive imported water when consumption exceeds its local drawing limits.

Rohrbach described water from the state project as "good quality," but noted the filtration plant is needed to make it potable.

Reservoirs and the aqueduct itself are open to recreational uses along the water's southward journey and it becomes "somewhat polluted," he said.

McCarthy said Monday the city and the San Antonio Land Co. board have been "dickering" several months on the price of the land before settling on its appraised value of $22,845 per acre.

The city owns 28 percent of the land company's stock, and McCarthy sits on the company's board along with Mayor George Gibson and City Manager Lee Travers.

"They're off!" in the "Run for the Handicapped" race held Saturday as a benefit for the Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens. Sixty persons entered the race which was held in recognition of National Retarded Citizens Month.

Several runners wore the blue T-shirts bearing an emblem of a dove carrying a twig, symbol of the Association for Retarded Citizens, and bearing the ARC theme of "Build the Arc."

Warming up by pushing against a street sign is John Davis of Claremont before he started to run in the "Run for the Handicapped." The event was held in recognition of National Retarded Citizens Month, which is noted in March. The race started in Upland and ended at Claremont Memorial Park 4.2 miles later. Scott Winfield of Upland and Mary Gonzales of Ontario were adult winners, while Barry Kimbrough of Upland won in the under 14 division. Paul Orr of Upland won the over 45-year division. ## Upland trustees ok pay hikes for 300

With the state-imposed freeze on public employees' salaries overturned by a recent court decision, the Upland school board Tuesday night approved pay increases of nearly 7 percent delayed since last July for some 300 employees.

Superintendent George Renworth said the retroactive raises amount to about $450,000 over the entire fiscal year for teachers and management personnel.

He added that the salary increases, 6.915 percent, will go into effect in April, with employees receiving their back pay in May.

Upland trustees first approved the negotiated salary increases in May 1978, and the raises were scheduled to go into effect last July 1.

However, the state legislature's bail-out measure (SB 154 for Proposition 13 prohibited local governments from receiving their share of more than $4 billion in state surplus funds if cost-of-living raises exceeded those for state employees.

The provision amounted to a freeze on public employee salaries for most local governments after Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. vetoed pay increases for most state employees.

The state Supreme Court overturned the provision of SB 154 on Feb. 15, calling that section of the law unconstitutional because it violated contractual obligations.

The day after that decision Renworth said the 6.915 percent increase would be subject to renegotiation, because the district could not afford to grant the entire increase under Proposition 13 revenue limits.

After the board meeting, he said trustees met with the negotiator for the Upland Teachers Association on March 6 in executive session. Trustees felt they should honor their "previous commitment," Renworth said.

Charles Palmer, assistant superintendent for personnel, said the district is also honoring a $23 per month across-the-board wage increase for classified employees without board action.

That increase — prorated for part-time employees and scheduled to go into effect last August — was part of a two-year contract that ended Dec. 31.

District negotiations are under way with Chapter 163 of the California School Employees Association for a new contract.

Teachers are in the first year of their three-year contract, which has reopening clauses for salaries and fringe benefits at the end of each fiscal year.

Fringe benefits were not affected by SB 154, nor were the "step" increases teachers received for added experience and "class" increases for additional training.

Palmer said a beginning teacher in the Upland School District with a bachelor's degree and credential now makes $10,933 annually.

Citizen honored

The Upland City Council has honored Edward "Ted" Atwood for 30 years service to the city.

Atwood, a long-time volunteer and reserve firefighter for Upland, retired from department duties in February.

He served as a full-time fire engineer for the city from 1951 to 1957 and then became a volunteer fireman. The resolution notes he was captain of the volunteers for 15 years.

When Upland switched from a program of volunteers augmenting its regular firefighters to paid reserves, Atwood stayed on in the new capacity.

Atwood once recalled that he practically grew up around the Upland Fire Department because his father, Glenn, was a charter member of the original volunteers in 1911.

His grandfather also played a prominent community role in Upland's early days and founded J.J. Atwood Co. department store in the town center.

Flea market, breakfast

and Flea Market to be held March 18 at Memorial Park in Upland. The chamber is sponsoring the flea market and the Kiwanis club the breakfast. Flea market space can be rented by calling 982-8816. (Staff photo)

Enrollment declining

Truancies, absences cause school problem

A growing number of truancies and absences and a decline in enrollment in the Chaffey Joint Union High School District are creating problems for the district and students, according to school administrators.

Supervisors pick architect for expansion

An Upland architectural firm won the right Monday to draw up plans for the remodeling and expansion of ward B of the county mental health center in San Bernardino.

The county board of supervisors awarded the $107,500 contract to Barmakian, Wolff and Associates after negotiations with the architecture and engineering division of the county Public Works Agency.

The project itself is expected to cost $1.5 million to $1.6 million.

The 1977-78 grand jury recommended the remodeling in 1977 after examining conditions in the ward, where a patient was stabbed to death by another patient.

The expansion will add some 7,000 square feet to the ward. Included will be two receiving areas for patients, offices, medical examination rooms, nurses' stations, four bedrooms for temporary care, a telephone operations room and an outpatient observation recreation room.

About 7,000 square feet of the present ward will be remodeled to allow for improved staff observation of patients "and to create an environment more near to the normal residential setting," James L. Matthews Jr. said.

Matthews is director of the county architecture and engineering division.

Tax help offered in Ontario

Low-income and fixed-income taxpayers of Ontario who desire free assistance in preparing their 1978 federal and state income tax returns are reminded that there are two locations in Ontario where such service is rendered.

The Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) Program is conducted at the Ontario library each Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. until April 14.

The service is available by appointment only. Individuals who wish to be scheduled may call 984-2758, extension 30 or 986-1151, extension 219.

Tax assistance is also provided by the Senior Citizens Program of United Way at the Ontario YMCA, located at 215 W. C St. This service, available to senior citizens only, may be arranged by calling 988-6015 for an appointment.

A spokesman of the VITA program reports that a considerable number of persons have failed to keep their appointment which deprives others of the service. Individuals who cannot keep appointments are asked to call for postponement or cancellation in order to make time available for others.

Travelers

"Seven Wonders of the West" will be the topic of a program the Rev. Ralph H. Lightbody will give March 20 at the ninth birthday luncheon of the Upland Travelers Club.

Luncheon will be served at noon in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church of Upland. Ticket reservations must be in before this coming Monday by calling Leonard Nylander at 985-7404.

There still is space available for the group's spring four-day tour to Phoenix March 30 through April 2. For tour information, call Myrtle Buchanan at 983-6902 or Grace Groenestein at 986-2825.

He said some students "can't handle" the freedom they have and their school work can suffer as a result. With more free time a student may also get into trouble with the law, the Upland principal said.

A change in society, Smothers said, is also evident. Many parents think nothing of pulling their kids out of school to go on special outings, he said.

At Chino High School, in the Chino Unified School District, Principal Dick Ferguson said "attendance is our biggest problem because it directly leads to problems."

The Chaffey district has no figures available on how many student absences are "unqualified" — without a proper written excuse — but teachers seem to think it is quite high.

Wehrli noted at a recent school board meeting that she had 17 students absent out of a class of 32 during a single period.

Enrollment at the five high schools in the district is showing the first decline in recent history, according to Dickinson.

The enrollment at the peak period of the 1978-79 school year, which was the first Friday in October, was 12,470 students down from the previous school year's 12,541.

Since then enrollment has been declining at a faster rate than the previous year. By Jan. 21 of this year the enrollment had decreased 4.9 percent or 916 students from the peak reached in October.

This compares with a 2.7 decrease in enrollment over the same period last year, according to Dickinson.

Enrollment normally goes down through the year, Dickinson said, but this year the decline has been faster.

The district expected a decline by next year, but this year's decline was a surprise, Dickinson said.

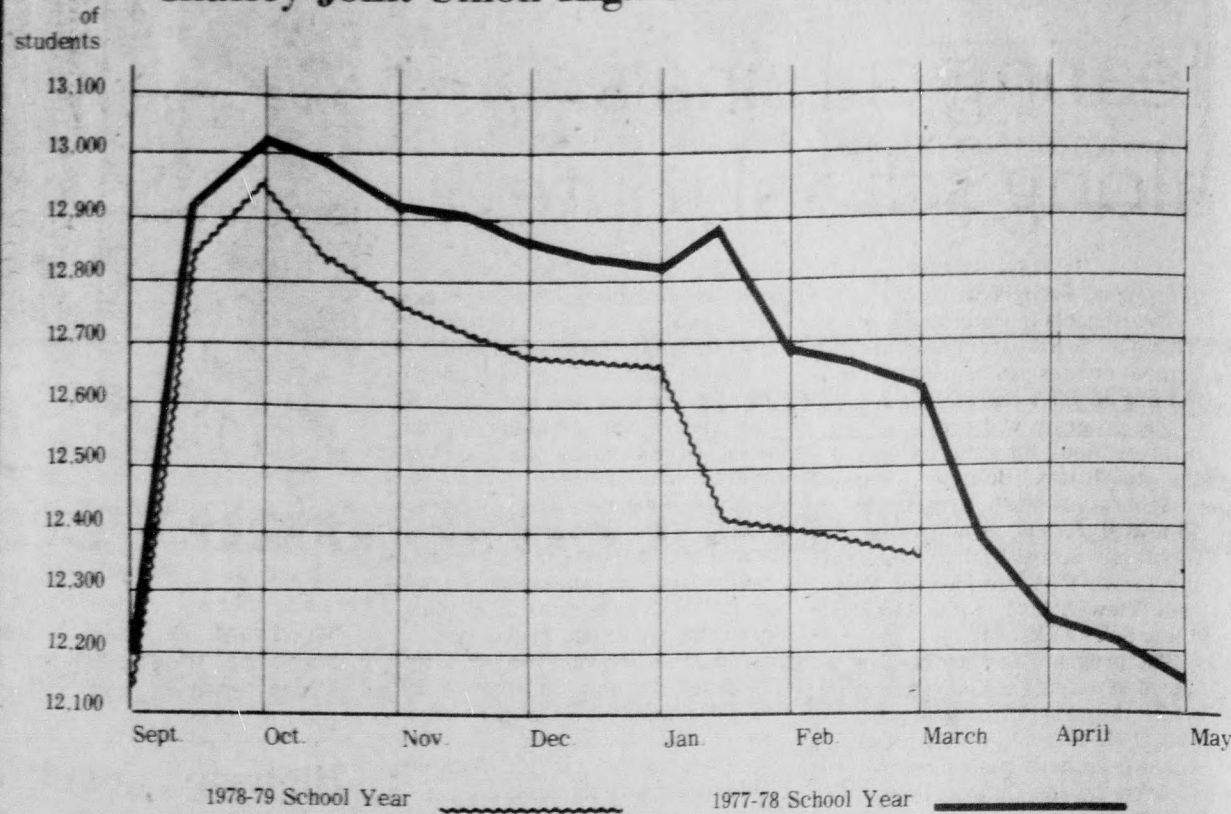

Dirksen believes the declining enrollment is being caused by high school students wanting to get out in the job market early to "beat the other guy."

The superintendent said the past push was to get a degree, but several years ago when so many persons with doctorates were without jobs this might of have changed the thinking of a lot of students.

Dirksen said the problem is not limited to this area, but other areas of the state and the country are experiencing similar declines in enrollment.

Dirksen has appointed a committee of administrators to look into the problem of school attendance and enrollment and determine the causes.

PTSA to hold annual meeting Tuesday night

The annual unit meeting of the Parent-Teacher-Student Association (PTSA) of Chaffey High School will be conducted Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the homemaking auditorium.

Renaissance songs will be presented by Matt Scully's Chamber Singers and the play "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be performed by students of the English department Shakespeare Society. Renaissance dances will also be presented.

PTSA officers for the 1979-80 school year will be elected at the meeting. Parents, teachers and students are invited to attend.

Junior high band to perform

Alta Loma Junior High School band and chorus will perform on Stage I at noon on Saturday, March 31, during the 64th National Orange Show in San Bernardino scheduled March 22 through April 1.

The band will be under the direction of Wesley Hawks and the chorus director is Joyce Martinez. It will be just one of the many non-professional performances offered on the daily program for visitors during the 11-day run of the citrus exposition.

Aid given children fearing criminals along school route

By KEN SWART
Staff Writer

Two schools in Ontario are establishing a "block parent program" to combat crimes against children, according to PTA representatives.

The program will create a "ring of protection" for children, according to Kathy Bolinger, Parent Teachers Association president of Vineyard School in the Ontario - Montclair School District, and Debbie Lowe, PTA president of Mountain View School in the Mountain View School District.

The program has just been introduced to parents at Vineyard School, while the program is near completion at Mountain View School, where volunteers have been screened and cleared by the Ontario Police Department.

Parents make themselves available throughout the day in case a child needs help while walking to or from school, Mrs. Bolinger and Mrs. Lowe explained.

The OMSD PTA district council, the Mountain View School District PTA and the Ontario Police Department are cooperating in the joint project.

Protection of children is necessary, according to the Ontario Police Department, because of the high incidence of crimes against children and young adults recently reported in Ontario and other West End cities.

"The purpose of the block parent program is to protect children by providing supervision while they're going to and coming from school," said Ted Desormiers, a department child abuse investigator.

"You can station block parents throughout the neighborhood so the kids will know who to go to when they need help," said Desormiers, speaking to a group of parents at Vineyard School last week.

"You may go through weeks or months without a child ever needing to come up to your house," but when the child does need help, he knows it will be available through the program, Desormiers said.

The program is designed so children will recognize each house which holds the block parent by a colored sticker posted in a front window, Desormiers said. Children should become so accustomed to the location that seeking help at these houses will be almost a reflex.

"You don't realize how much pressure that takes off kids," when they know help is only houses and minutes away, Desormiers said.

"If we can get interested people like you involved and prepared, we can reduce the problems in the area," Desormiers told the Vineyard School parents.

Mrs. Bolinger noted the program should attain widespread district and community support because "I really think parents nowadays will go for the idea because of so many problems we've had in the past."

Mrs. Lowe said she first approached the department with the idea of a block parent program several months ago, but was met with a cool response because officers were unfamiliar with the program.

After the proposed program gathered strong support from the school community, department officials were much more willing to work with the Mountain View PTA, Mrs. Lowe said.

She agreed the need for such a program was strong and that using parent participation in surrounding neighborhoods was logical.

"I'd hate to have my child come into a situation where he needed help and no one was home to offer any," Mrs. Lowe said.

She added that without the clear and specific designation of houses and parents, "a child can spend precious minutes running through neighborhoods knocking on doors."

Speaker to discuss high, low self-esteem

Do you take responsibility for yourself, avoiding the blaming of others and making excuses?

If so, you are a person with high self-esteem. Persons with low self-esteem tend to blame others for their problems, make excuses for mistakes.

The behavior of people with high self-esteem will be compared to that of people with low self-esteem by Marty Christensen when she speaks Monday, March 19, to the San Antonio Community Hospital Auxiliary.

Highway closed for bridge construction

A section of Arrow Highway between Baker and Vineyard avenues in Rancho Cucamonga will be closed for three months to accommodate the construction of a bridge over Cucamonga Wash.

City officials said that the section will be closed to all through traffic sometime during the week of March 19.

The bridge is being built by the San Bernardino County Flood Control District in conjunction with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Cucamonga Creek improvement project.

Seven workshops also offered

Author Ray Bradbury to speak at college's first Writer's Day

St. Patrick's Day will find Chaffey College hosting its first Writer's Day. Well-known writer Ray Bradbury will be the keynote speaker and seven workshops will be offered on different writing topics March 17.

"Children's Story Writing," Professors and staff members on campus with writing experience will conduct these workshops. Each will be offered twice, once at 1:15 and again at 2:45.

The writing contest related to this event closed on Feb. 16. Winners in the categories of poetry, short story and non-fiction essay will be announced at the concluding ceremony. At this time, Ray Bradbury will address the assembled guests, as well as hand out the award certificates.

Bradbury has published over 400 short stories, essays, poems, novels and plays during the past 37 years. His stories have appeared in The New Yorker, Harper's, The New Republic, Esquire, McCall's, as well as Weird Tales and Astounding Stories. Films have been made of his works "Fahrenheit 451," "The Illustrated Man," "It Came From Outer Space," "The Beast From 20,000 Fathoms" and "The Picasso Summer." Upcoming films include "The Martian Chronicles" as a six-hour mini-series and "Something Wicked This Way Comes" for theatrical release this year. He is now at work on a full-length opera based on his play "Leviathan '99."

A magazine containing the winning contest entries will be on sale during the conference. Registration information may be obtained by calling 987-1737, 822-4484 or 735-0242 ext. 275 or 276. Chaffey College is located 5 miles north of the 210 freeway on Haven Avenue in Alta Loma.

Schools, 2 people receive awards

Two area schools and two West End residents were honored recently with Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge awards.

Alta Loma Junior High School received the Valley Forge Honor Certificate for School Programs, and the American Christian Academy in Pomona received the George Washington Honor Medal for School Programs.

Thomas T. Woodson of Harvey Mudd College in Claremont was honored with an award for Excellence in Private Enterprise Education, with Upland resident James E. Dyer of Alta Loma Junior High School received the American Educators Medal.

The awards were made on the basis of outstanding contributions "of a broadly defined patriotic nature."

Selection of the recipients was made from nominations submitted by the general public, and an independent panel of justices of the State Supreme Courts and national, veteran, service clubs and patriotic organization officials made the selections.

Hygienists will meet in Upland

The Tri-County Dental Hygienists' Society will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland for a program on coordinated health planning - "A Look at the Health Systems Agency."

Presenting the program will be Kay Mason, president of the Inland Counties Health Systems Agency, and Michael Bannon, executive director of the agency.

The program is designed to inform hygienists of the roll of the HSA and how health organizations can help each other in dental health planning for the future.

As part of the program, Mrs. Wolfgang Koessler, Assistance League of Upland chairman for the San Antonio Community Hospital Dental Center, will talk about the center and how it works. She will conduct a tour of the center following the meeting.

Local products show quality

While much of the season-long attention in the West End will focus on those baseball teams located within the southwest corner of San Bernardino County, local products toiling elsewhere are also creating an interest.

John Pignotti, who along with Frank Pastore formed one of the toughest youth pitching-catching crops ever assembled in the West End youth ranks, is heading for his final season at Claremont Men's College. Now brothers-in-law, the Pignotti-Pastore tandem is Upland spawned. Now 6-foot-1, 195 pounds, the returning All-Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference catcher is again being closely watched by professional scouts.

A teammate this season will be pitcher Art Rodriguez, a 5-foot-7, 168-pound pitcher from Chaffey High School. He specializes in the "dancer," a major league knuckleball.

Over at La Verne, where Coach Ben Hines has been producing winners on the field and in real life for 18 years, there is always a sprinkling of West End products.

And 1979 will be no different as the Leopards go about their business of trying to win yet another NAIA World Series.

One of the key members of the '79 edition is Marty Davis, a versatile youngster who won All-SCIAC honors last year with a .461 batting average.

He primarily served as a designated hitter, what with All-America Tim Burzette holding down the catching post.

Davis prepped at Chaffey. Another All-SCIAC product with local roots is pitcher Brent Jetton, who had a 5-3 won-lost record last year. He's from Montclair, as was recent La Verne hero Pat Proulx.

On the initial eight-man pitching staff assembled by Hines, himself a former coach for the Ontario American Legion baseball team, are two other West End residents — Doug Lindsey (Upland) and Joe Preciado (Fontana).

Among former La Verne players who have etched their name in the school record book is Nick Leyva, another Chaffey product who now serves as a manager in the St. Louis Cardinals' farm system.

He toiled for La Verne in 1972-75.

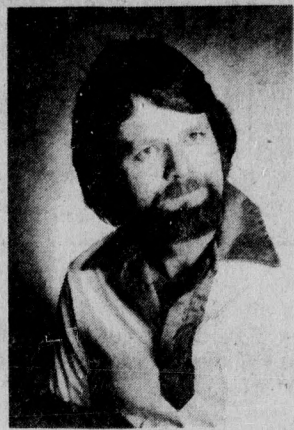

He holds career records in at bats (719), hits (249) and runs batted in (155).

Another name listed in the record book is that of Wayne Redfearn, who collected 14 triples for the Leopards during his 1974-77 stint.

Over the years, West End youngsters have toiled at virtually every major four-year school in California, Oregon and Washington. But contributions at smaller schools, including the two-year program at Chaffey College, have also been on a quality basis.

It figures that 1979 will be another remembered year.

St. Monica's Guild will hold annual-fashion fete

St. Monica's Guild of Damien High School in La Verne will stage the 13th annual Fashion Show on St. Patrick's Day, March 17, at the Biltmore Hotel in downtown Los Angeles. Proceeds from the traditional event are earmarked for the educational facilities of Damien High, a Catholic school in La Verne.

The event will begin at 11:30 a.m. with a social hour in the ballroom lobby, followed by luncheon to be served at 12:30 p.m. in the Biltmore Bowl. Rogee Kayashima will be chairman of the annual event that will feature fashions from Nordstrom of the South Coast Plaza Center in Costa Mesa. Commentator will be Christy Butera. Sondra Robison is prize chairman. Bus transportation will be provided from Damien High to the Biltmore for a fee. Reservations are being taken by Helen Normington at 599-2448. Luncheon reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Jerry Cimino at 624-5645.

Children's training offered

To keep pace with the demand for service, Casa Colina's Children's Services Center is offering three spring sessions in the intensive behavioral training program for school-age children. The program, which opened six months ago, has served children from Los Angeles, Riverside and

San Bernardino counties. The program is designed for children age 6-12 who have problems in concentration, self-control, hyperactivity, distractibility, social interaction and related difficulties. Group and individual therapy sessions are conducted after regular school hours, according to Elizabeth Neumann, Ph.D., director of the center. Registration time for the spring sessions, which will open in late March, is now through March 19. Further information is available by calling Drake, 593-7521, extension 275.

Problems to be studied

Cal Poly equine center funded

By RITA BUSBY
Staff Writer

A $100,000 equine research center will be established on the Cal Poly Pomona campus for research in a wide variety of problems affecting all breeds of horses.

The studies may also have far-reaching effects on zoning laws and regulations throughout Southern California involving the keeping of horses on residential lots.

Additionally, studies will be directed toward thoroughbreds in breed improvement.

The $100,000 is a pledge from the Oak Tree Racing Association of California, sponsors of the fall racing meet at Santa Anita.

But research will involve all breeds of animals, according to Herman Smith, executive vice president of Oak Tree.

The studies will be directed toward people who own horses as a business and those who own horses as pleasure, according to Norman Dunn, director of the Arabian horse center and acting chairman of the animal science department at Cal Poly.

He said it will be the only equine research center in Southern California.

The University of California at Davis near Sacramento has a similar center.

Dunn said research will be involved with more economical methods and feed for horses, feeds which might produce healthier and stronger animals and enhance the survival of horses in urban communities.

It is specifically hoped that the studies will lead to more realistic zoning regulations for persons wishing to keep horses in an urban setting, according to Dunn.

Rules and regulations are developed in haste and people don't have the proper information available to them, concerning planning and zoning ordinances, Dunn said.

March 15, 1979

"The purpose of this study would be to develop demonstration-type facilities for community planners to see and evaluate," he said.

Additionally, through the research, Dunn hopes to publish for city governments booklets designed to help both the horse owner and the community.

Dr. Tony Dunha, dean of the Cal Poly school of agriculture, estimates there are more than 9 million horses in the United States today.

An average of $1,000 is spent on each horse annually, adding up to a $9 billion equine industry.

And horse racing, says Cunha, has been and continues to be the leading spectator sport in the United States.

But even so, "Less is known about the nutrition, physiology and reproduction of the horse than any other domestic animal," he said.

While most other domestic animals have undergone intensive research by the United States Department of Agriculture, the horse has been avoided because it isn't an "edible" animal, according to Dunha.

There are approximately 600,000 horses in California today, with half of them pleasure horses and the rest located at breeding establishments.

Dixie Snapp and daughter Jennifer relax in their Rancho Cucamonga home. Jennifer has Cystic Fibrosis, an inherited disease affecting the lungs and digestive system. The Tri - Valley Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation will hold a "Bowling For Breath" event to help the foundation research. (Staff photo by Patti Emmert)

R.C. three-year-old, her family share in Cystic Fibrosis battle

By PATTI EMMERT
Staff Writer

Jennifer Snapp is three years old and has Cystic Fibrosis. She and her family live in Rancho Cucamonga and share the constant battle against the disease.

Cystic Fibrosis is the number one inherited disease in the United States among diseases which affect children.

The genetic disease, which has no present cure, affects the lungs and digestive systems and causes repeated bouts of pneumonia and digestive problems.

Currently, the national Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is working on genetic research that will allow children with the disease to grow into adulthood.

For CF to be inherited, both parents must carry the gene and one of every 20 persons in the country is a carrier.

Both Dixie Snapp and her husband Larry carried the gene and although they have three other children, only Jennifer inherited the disease.

"I had Jennifer when I was 35," said Mrs. Snapp. "And I always thought she was not very healthy. But then she had to be hospitalized at six weeks, so she was diagnosed very early."

Many children have the disease in varying "degrees" but are not diagnosed for CF, she said.

"The illness is a deceiving one. Some of the symptoms include a chronic cough that seems like bronchitis and large, foul stools. Sometimes the skin will get crusty and salty because CF kids lose a lot of salt," Mrs. Snapp said.

The reason pneumonia is frequent, according to Mrs. Snapp, is because CF causes thick mucus in the lungs and creates a breeding environment for bacteria.

Jennifer must take a powdered form of enzyme to help her digest food, said Mrs. Snapp. CF children often must take up to 40 enzyme pills daily to curb digestive problems.

"They also take a lot of antibiotics to fight the bacteria," she said. "That's a problem in itself because they (antibiotics) can damage liver and kidneys. But the problems aren't all physical."

Wear and tear on personal and family emotions and relationships is part of the disease too.

"I did much better before, when Jennifer was younger. It gets harder as she gets older. I like to think I'm a realistic person and I allow myself to think as realistically as possible about the situation," said Mrs. Snapp.

She said, "I've even gone so far as to lie awake - the nights are hardest, there is fear in the night - and think of her possible death, a funeral."

Mrs. Snapp said she is a woman of strong Christian faith but does not allow herself "to get false hope."

"I believe God can move mountains, but if this is the course of events I will have no false hopes about it. I don't want to destroy myself and my family if something should happen. I want to be able to cope," she said.

A major factor in helping her cope, she said, is her job. She is a director of a Christian cosmetic sales company.

"That's what has helped me keep my sanity," she said. "I don't run away from the problem through my job, but I tried staying home at first and it didn't work."

"I just stayed home and watched Jennifer be sick and I got very depressed and even grouchy at her because I was upset. It didn't do either of us any good."

"My oldest daughter, Ginger, moved in with a friend's family. Not all of it was because of Jennifer, some was because Ginger had her growing up to do, but part of it was Jennifer," said Mrs. Snapp.

"Ginger identified with the mother role and saw and felt what she herself might have to go through. She did work it out and is now married, though."

Her two "middle children," aged 11 and 12 years, aren't articulate about how they feel, she said.

"They don't always tell me what they really feel, but sometimes Larry, my 11-year-old, will have problems behaving in school if Jennifer's in the hospital."

"My husband," said Mrs. Snapp, "carries the burden mentally and he's not really very communicative about it either. He just says he looks at Jennifer as an average, healthy child and wants her to have as normal a life as possible."

The Snapp family members try to maintain a normal living environment and all keep fairly busy.

Mrs. Snapp is a member of the CF Tri - Valley Chapter which will sponsor a "Bowling for Breath" event in April.

"The bowling fundraiser will include the Pomona, San Gabriel and Whittier Valleys," she said. "And anyone who would like to participate can get sponsor sheets from myself or the chapter or at any of the four bowling alleys participating with us."

Mrs. Snapp can be reached by calling (714) 985-8808 and the Tri - Valley Chapter can be reached at (714) 599-8739.

Bowling centers participating include Landmark Bowl, 1750 W. Holt Ave., Pomona; Rowland Bowl, 18444 E.

'Violet hoedown' show slated

Members of the Pomona Valley African Violet Society are busily preparing for a two-day "Violet Hoedown," the theme for this year's flower show and awards program.

According to Iris Keating, the club's publicity chairman, the 26th Annual African Violet Show will be held March 30-31 at the Church of the Brethren, 2175 Bonita Ave., in La Verne. Friday's show will be open from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday's will entertain the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

In charge of award for the two-day show is My Le Hunt of Claremont, who has been growing African Violets for only three years. She grows her plants on a fluorescent-lighted shelf in her kitchen, designed by her husband, Richard, a student at the Claremont School of Theology.

Among others persons involved in the planning of this year's show are Mrs. John Jones of Claremont, chairman; Mrs. Alex Mueller of La Verne, consultant; Francis Mathewson of Ontario, hospitality; Mrs. William Snell of Ontario, judges' luncheon; Mrs. E. K. Keating of Claremont, publicity; Mrs. Lawrence Gould of Pomona, staging; and Mrs. John Peterson of La Verne, supply.

Besides the show plants and artistic arrangements, plants and supplies will be available for sale. Mrs. Keating reported there would be periodic demonstrations during the show.

YMCA plans Fun Club during Easter vacation

The central branch of the Pomona Valley YMCA is planning its Fun Club once again for Easter vacation, April 9-13. The Y is looking for interested and qualified people who would be willing to give a part of themselves to the youngsters who participate in the Fun Club program. The following positions are available on a strictly volunteer basis and represent an excellent opportunity to continue working for the Y in its Summer Day Camp Program.

Program leaders and counselors, of at least 15 years of age, and with a willingness to learn new skills should stop by the YMCA at 350 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. Potential program leaders and counselors must enjoy working with young people ages 5 through 11, and those with experience in the areas of arts and crafts, leading games, songs, nature activities and sports are preferred.

The jobs entail leading group activities, counseling children when required, disciplining them when necessary, and generally helping them learn and succeed in various activities.

For more information, please call the Pomona YMCA at 612-6433 or stop by and ask for Doug Grimm.

Desert camping
The Office of Continuing Education at Cal Poly Pomona is offering a weekend camping experience at historic Zzyzx as part of the interdisciplinary course, the desert in springtime. Participants will spend the weekend camping at the Soda Springs Desert Research Station in Zzyzx, March 16, 17 and 18. The research station, recently converted from a health resort, is an outstanding area for the study of the California desert with ecological and anthropological importance. Spring - fed ponds where the rare desert pupfish and Mojave chub fish thrive, the abandoned Tidewater and Tonopah Railroad, the Old Mojave Road, and the dozens of varieties of flowering shrubs, cactuses, shade and palm trees will be studied and explored. Instructors participating in the course are Jack Frost whose area of expertise is desert survival; Dr. Crane Miller, desert climatology and geography; Dennis Casebier, local resident and authority on the history of the Mojave Desert; Hal Jones of San Dimas Park Research Center, desert flora and fauna; and Dr. Ralph Shaffer, Cal Poly History Department, who is coordinating the program. Those persons interested will be required to attend a planning meeting on Wednesday, March 7, 7:30 p.m. at the Kellogg West Center for Continuing Education at Cal Poly. Fees for the course are $48 per person with an additional $22 for two units of university credit. More information may be obtained by calling the Office of Continuing Education, 598-4391.

Dance, acrobatics
Registration for the spring quarter is currently being taken for beginning tap, ballet and acrobatic classes for children, ages 3 through 12 at the Upland Recreation Department, 123 E. D St. Classes include: 3-5-year-olds, Tuesday, 10:30-11:30 a.m.; 5-7, Monday, 5:30-6:30 p.m.; 8-12, Tuesday, 5:30-6:30 p.m. The 10-week session will begin the week of March 12. Fee is $15. Fees will be prorated for students who begin one week later. Teen and adult tap and slim ballet classes are also being offered. A half-hour beginning tap class will be held Monday 7:15 to 7:45 p.m. (Fee $7.50). The slim ballet class will be on Wednesday, 6 to 7 p.m. (Fee $15). Also available is an advanced tap class on Monday evening, 6:30 to 7:15 p.m. (Fee $11.25). All classes are held in the Cellar, the basement of the old library building, 123 E. D St. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. five days a week. For more information call the recreation office, 985-0994.

Slide photography
A class in 35 mm color slides photography will be offered among Ontario Recreation Departments spring session programs, March 26 through May 18. Students will be instructed in basic camera handling, composition, light metering, and different films and their development methods. Instructor James Giordano will also introduce various areas of photography, such as informal portraiture, pets, sports, close-up, and flash photography. Students will be encouraged to shoot assignments and bring their slides for class critique. Registration opens March 12 to 23 at the Recreation Department Office, 217 S. Lemon Ave. Fee is $16.50. The class will meet on Wednesday at the Recreation Building, 7 to 10 p.m., beginning March 28. For more information call 986-1151, extension 242.

Disco dance
The Montclair Human Services Department will offer disco dance instruction to teens and adults in a six-week session to begin March 12. Classes will be on Mondays or Tuesdays at the recreation building in the civic center. The times will be 7 to 8 p.m. for singles and 8:15 to 9:15 p.m. for couples. The fee for the six-week session will be $20 per person. This should be paid at the human services office in the civic center prior to the first meeting. Instructor will be Jim Bontemple, who has been an instructor, choreographer, and studio owner for 12 years. His specialties are "hustle disco" and "West Coast swing". Prospective participants are invited to present this notice as admission for a free lesson during the last meeting of the present session March 6. More information can be obtained by calling the human services office, 626-8571.

Belly dancing
A class in belly dancing sponsored by the YMCA combines a fun form of physical fitness with a exotic art form. The lessons will be held at the YMCA, 215 W. C St., Ontario. The sessions began March 5 on Monday evenings from 7-9 p.m. The lessons will feature figure slimming, body isolation exercises, finger cymbals, veil work, floor work, costuming and movies. Miss Domita Jo Winsor is the instructor for the class. She has appeared in several clubs in the area and has danced in many community programs.

Desert trip
The Office of Continuing Education at Cal Poly University Pomona offers a five-day field experience for those interested in both the local desert and photography. Participants in the course "Nature Photography" will enjoy five days in and around Death Valley National Monument learning to photograph such subjects as Scotty's Castle, the Devil's Golf Course, the sand dunes, and ghost towns including Rhyolite and Beatty. Instruction includes camera handling, principles and esthetics of nature photography; creative use of lenses, filters and films for a more expressive visual statement. The course begins March 19 and continues through March 23; participants will be responsible for their own travel and lodging arrangements. A preliminary planning meeting will be held on March 10, 9 a.m.-1 p.m. for which attendance is required. The instructor is Greg Lewis of the Cal Poly Dept. of Communication Arts. The fee is $50 per person and 2 units of credit are available. For further information call the Office of Continuing Education at 714-598-4391.

Stained glass
All teens and adults interested in beginning instruction in stained glass, using lead techniques, are invited to attend a new eight-week session beginning March 14. The Wednesday classes will be from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the recreation building in the civic center. There is a registration fee of $15. In addition to registration, the first meeting will consist of orientation and information regarding the cost of supplies. Instructor will be arts and crafts professional Deborah Lee. More information can be obtained by phoning the human services office, 626-8571.

Rodeo clowns... They suffer everything but a broken spirit

By JACK WILLIAMS
Copley News Service

It all started, this macho mayhem, back in Smithville, Okla., population 300, where the pigs and cows and mules were likely to outnumber the humans and the kids would just as soon ride a critter as a brand-new Schwinn.

When the fields were plowed, the hay bailed and the stock fed, it was time to play cowboy. Even if you were Jay Ludlow, a three-quarter Choctaw Indian and one-quarter "German, I think."

Ludlow was 12 when he earned his first money, for outlasting some other boys on the back of a recalcitrant mule in a neighborhood "mule scramble."

"I won $5," he remembers.

Today, at 44, Ludlow retains some of the childhood fascination of a boy who ran away from home to join the rodeo.

He's a rodeo clown, another term for one of those outrageously attired sentries of the arena who try to make bronc and bull riding safe for cowboys.

Ludlow works full time as a warehouseman. He figures he picks up $300 over a weekend, along with a few bruises and bumps.

It's no laughing matter, this business of a rodeo clown.

He dresses up in grease paint, in size 58 pants that fit his 5-foot-9, 180-pound body like a tent, and tries to convince 2,000-pound bulls that he's a more promising target than a rider who's just been tossed to the ground.

"You don't think about the danger," he says. "At least not when you're out there. You might circle him or wave something in his face, anything to distract him from the fallen rider (who very rarely stays on the bull's back through the eight-second time limit).

"You can get close to the bull but you've gotta keep moving."

Ludlow, a rodeo clown for more than a decade, has suffered the usual occupational hazards: broken legs, broken collarbone, broken nose and broken ribs. Everything but a broken spirit.

Before that he was a bull rider himself, winning as much as $1,200 on a weekend at three rodeos.

"When I was 29," he said, "I was getting a little stiff from the ridin' and the younger generation was out-doin' me. There's steady money for a clown, and a cowboy down on his luck might not win anything at a rodeo."

Still, a rodeo clown is no job for an old man.

"You've gotta know the bulls," says Ludlow. "You study 'em before they ever come out of the chute. And it helps to be quick. I do a lot of jogging to keep in shape."

"Yeah, I guess I've save a rider's life," he said. "Three years ago in National City, Calif., a bull was on top of the rider. I kicked the bull in the face to get him away from the rider's leg. Then I fell down and the bull turned. He pushed me eight feet with his nose."

"It feels good at the end of the day to know that no one got hurt."

"But I'd say the majority of spectators come to see cowboys get tromped. It's like going to an auto race and looking for a wreck."

Pomona artists' oils displayed

By ILA WALES
Staff Writer

Oil paintings by Ova Winston and Nola Whalen of Pomona are featured this month in the lobby gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 399 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. The paintings will be displayed throughout the month.

Mrs. Winston began painting in oils after her retirement from Cal Poly Pomona. Her paintings are in private collections in 14 states and Canada.

Mrs. Whalen's interest in art began with her activities in her church and the Girl Scouts. In addition to painting on canvas, Mrs. Whalen also paints rock paperweights and jewelry.

The Edward-Dean Museum of Decorative Arts is presenting transparent watercolors by W. Ira Dobbs during the month of March. He specializes in drawing and painting flowers from around the world. His designs are seen in watercolor paintings, scarves, tablecloths, napkins, pillow tops and needlepoint canvases.

A reception for Dobbs is scheduled for March 18, from 2 to 4 p.m. The reception is open to the public. The Edward-Dean Museum of Decorative Arts, a facility of the Riverside County Parks Department, is located at 9401 Oak Glen Road, Cherry Valley. It is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Four artists will display their works at the San Bernardino Valley College Art Gallery through Thursday. The show, entitled "Intersection," features recent works of Jim Green, Mike Gronek, Tim Taylor and Steve Bowen.

Green is showing several of his paintings on copper. Bowen, a Riverside area artist for the past seven years, is showing collages based on his lifelong study and contempt of National Geographic Magazine.

Gronek, born in Fontana and educated at the University of California, Riverside, is showing acrylic paintings on paper. Taylor, a native of the Riverside area, will be showing large format photographs of his own drawings, which include some controversial proposed monuments for the revival of downtown Riverside.

The gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 8 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Three Southern California artists will present an exhibition of paintings and drawings in the Mt. San Antonio College Art Gallery beginning with an opening reception Wednesday from 1 to 4 p.m.

"Artists by Design" will feature Susan Lautmann Hertel, Martin Webber and Kent Twitchell. The show ends March 30 and gallery hours are from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Admission is free.

The Fontana Art Center will sponsor an art flea market sale, featuring works of area artists from Friday through March 31. Hand-painted china, ceramics, pottery, oil paintings, macrame and watercolors will be on sale, with prices ranging from $1.75 to $25. The sale will be at the Fontana Art Center Gallery, 8536 Sierra Ave., Fontana, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Sundays.

Memorabilia from the time capsule recently removed from the Madonna of the Trail at Foothill Boulevard and Euclid Avenue in Upland will be displayed at the Chaffey Communities Cultural Center, 525 W. 18th St., Upland, beginning March 18. The museum is open from 1 to 4 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays. The museum also has other displays

St. Patrick's Day fun set

Food, fun and typical Irish frolic will reign during St. Patrick's Day weekend at Disneyland Saturday and Sunday.

Irish singer Dennis Day will highlight the weekend's festivities with performances each day from Tomorrowland's Space Stage. Day will be given instrumental support by the 20-piece Disneyland Band.

The Magic Kingdom will also present special performances by guest groups of Irish dancers, bagpipers, and marching bands during the two-day event.

Mickey O'Mouse will get in the mood for the weekend by donning his leprechaun's wardrobe, while his many cartoon character friends will join in by wearing oversized shamrocks.

Cameron Grant and James Winn, duo-pianists, are among the guest artists scheduled to appear during the 1979-80 Pomona Valley Community Concert Association season. Memberships in the group are available beginning Monday through Saturday.

Community concert member drive set

Louis Ronfeldt, president of the Pomona Valley Community Concert Association, announces that Membership Campaign Week for the 1979-80 season is slated Monday through Saturday. Headquarters for the campaign will be in the Ralph Pierce Music Co. store at 822 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. A special telephone has been ordered for Community Concerts use during the week of the drive.

Present members are urged to renew their memberships now and other interested persons are invited to join the Association. As a bonus to new members, membership in the 1979-80 season will entitle them to attend the last concert of the current season: Kathleen Battle, Soprano, on Tuesday, March 20.

The Pomona Valley Community Concert Association is a non-profit community organization operated entirely by the volunteer efforts of community leaders whose purpose is to bring to the local area fine concert artists, dance, and musical attractions to enhance the cultural climate of the community. Admittance to the concerts is by annual membership card. No tickets are sold at the door. Membership in one Community Concert Association brings with it the reciprocity privilege of attending, without charge, the programs of other Community Concert Associations in other nearby and distant communities.

As explained by Mrs. Jean Muelchi, membership chairman, the "organized audience plan" works in this manner: Annual dues for membership are collected during the week-long membership campaign. At the close of the campaign these funds are expended by the officers and board of directors who sit as an artist selection committee to select the concert attractions for the coming season. To the extent of the seating capacity of the auditorium (Gardiner Spring Auditorium, Chaffey High School, Ontario) the more memberships that can be enrolled - the more programs and higher priced attractions can be brought to the community.

The concert attractions already reserved as "hold attractions" for the 1979-80 season are: The Johann Strauss Ensemble of the Vienna Symphony Orchestra, Grant & Winn, duo-pianists, and Les Grands Ballets Canadiens. The remainder of the series, one or more concerts, will be announced at the close of the campaign and will be determined by the success of the drive.

Persons wishing to lend their aid to this civic enterprise and earn for themselves additional free memberships by introducing new people to community concerts membership, are urged to attend the campaign potluck dinner which will be held on Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the Bethel Congregational Church, 536 N. Euclid Ave., Ontario. Interested persons should contact Mrs. Jean Muelchi, membership chairman, 2554 Mountain Drive, Upland, 952-0331.

New church to begin in school auditorium

The Rev. Donald D. Bowers has announced that a new church would begin in the Alta Loma - Rancho Cucamonga area beginning with an afternoon session at 3 Sunday, March 25 at the Alta Loma High School Auditorium located at 8880 Base Line Road. It is the Evangelical Covenant Church of Alta Loma.

Bowers will become the founding pastor of the new church. His educational background includes the University of Arizona, Azusa Pacific College, Canadian Bible College, North Park Seminary and Oxford University.

He would like to invite those living in the vicinity to become a part of this opportunity of worship and fellowship. The emphasis of ministry will focus on the person of Jesus Christ and what a person can become as they discover the possibilities that are available in a new life in Christ.

The Sunday services will feature the 40 - voice male chorale from Azusa Pacific College under the direction of Lowell Roggow and Miss Ann Kiemel, author of several best selling books including: "I'm Out to Change My World," "I Love The Word Impossible" and "It's Incredible."

Miss Kiemel will relate how through Jesus Christ her world was changed. In a world where "How do you do" is not an invitation to describe one's physical and mental, well being, Ann's approach cuts through the patina of civil conversation direct to the metal beneath.

She will make you understand the Lord loves you and so does she. Pastor Bowers says: "She's the perfect speaker for opening a new church because her theme of "Hi, I'm Ann and I am out to change my world" is precisely the message of the church. For more information call (714) 987-6612.

Church school and child care will be provided and a social hour will follow the service.

Trinity Lutheran

"Jesus Says Move On" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Maynard Saegar for the 10 a.m. Sunday worship service at Trinity Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, 5080 Kingsley St., Montclair.

The Rev. Saegar's topic for the 7:30 p.m. Lenten service Wednesday will be entitled "Jesus and the Malefactor."

LWML Bible study will be held 7:30 p.m. Monday and Dorcas Bible study is held 9:30 a.m. Wednesday mornings.

Seventh-day Adventist

Elder Lloyd Sellers, President of the Central Los Angeles Ministerial Association and chaplain at White Memorial Medical Center, will speak at 10:50 a.m. Saturday at North Hills Seventh - day Adventist Church, 211 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont.

A prayer service will follow.

Dinner and dialogue due in Claremont

The Claremont Committee of the Pomona Valley Council of Churches, consisting of clergy and lay representatives of nine churches, the YMCA and Claremont Colleges chaplains, are sponsoring a dinner and dialogue event to be held at Claremont United Methodist Church on Tuesday, from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

The program will begin with a frugal dinner at 6:30 p.m. which will be followed by a panel discussion at which spokespersons for various church traditions will each describe "What Lent Means to My Tradition." A series of discussion groups will follow the panel presentations.

Presiding at the event will be Dr. David M. Held of the United Church of Christ church. The Rev. Cornish R. Rogers, host pastor, will welcome the audience. General chairperson for local church arrangements will be Dr. Paul F. Huebner.

Members of the panel and the traditions they will represent are: Fr. Peter O'Reilly, Catholic; Father John Keester, Episcopal; the Rev. William S. Dion, Lutheran; the Rev. Dr. James W. Angell, Presbyterian, Methodist and United Church of Christ; Ferner Nuhn, Friends and Baptist and the Rev. James Walters, Adventist.

The public is invited to this inter-church event.

Bethany Baptist to host annual meet

Rev. D. L. Bray, Pastor of Bethany Baptist Church of Montclair, announces that they will be hosting the annual meeting of area IV of the American Baptist Churches of the Pacific Southwest on Saturday, Area IV includes American Baptist Churches from the east San Gabriel Valley, the Pomona Valley, San Bernardino Area, and the high desert area.

The program begins at 2 p.m. and the keynote speaker will be Dr. Donald Cole, pastor of the South Shores Baptist Church in Laguna Niguel, who will be speaking on "Looking at the Needs of the Pastor." There will also be workshops during the afternoon which will be showing the laity "How to Minister to the Pastor and Staff."

During the dinner hour those in attendance will be hearing from Rev. Norman Riddle, who is a specialist in evangelism based in Zaire's capital city, Kinshasa.

The evening program will begin at 6:30 p.m. in which Dr. Donald Cole will again be speaking. Other special events during this program will be a presentation to Dr. Tandy Sullivan of Claremont, who has served as area minister for area IV for eight years. He is now serving in the pastorate at

Church panel discussion slated

Jim Walters, president of Claremont Committee of Pomona Valley Council of Churches, and secretary, Dr. C. Merrill Lennox announce the new "Living Room Dialogues," a one-evening only panel discussion Tuesday. The discussion will be preceded at 6:30 p.m. by a dinner in the Round Room of the United Methodist Church at 211 W. Foothill Blvd. (also used by North Hills Church), and followed by an inter-faith group discussion.

The panel, composed of ministers representing most Claremont churches, will discuss "What Lent Means In Our Tradition." Churches represented are: Baptist, Catholic, Episcopal, Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian, Quaker, Seventh-day Adventist, and United Church of Christ.

Walters is pastor of North Hills Seventh-day Adventist Church and Lennox serves the United Methodist Church as Minister of Outreach. They invite those

Adventists hold Bible seminar

A "Continuing It Is Written Seminar" is underway at the North Hills Seventh-day Adventist Church, 211 W. Foothill Blvd. in Claremont. Classes meet Saturdays at 10 a.m. and are led by Pastor Jim Walters.

The seminar teaches a unique Bible-marking plan, enabling participants to turn with ease, and with no memorizing, to texts on scriptural topics.

Call 624-0380 for further information.

the First Baptist Church in Santa Ana. There will also be special presentations attending to "clarify your own faith by taking seriously the faith of others."

Reservations may be made through any participating Claremont churches or dial 624-9021. The $2 supper is catered by "Soups On" Restaurant.

from these special groups during the program: John and Dawn Hess; The Fishnet Players of Ontario First Baptist; the Girl's Ensemble of Ontario First Baptist; the Light Shine Singers of San Bernardino, Del Rosa Heights; and Sonlight of Bethany Baptist of Montclair.

The public is invited to attend both these programs. Bethany Baptist Church of Montclair is located at the corner of Benito and Monte Vista Avenues in Montclair.

'Silent Witness' to be shown

Valley Christian Center will show "The Silent Witness" Friday and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. It is an investigation into the Holy Shroud of Turin.

The story of the Holy Shroud of Turin reveals new evidence that has startled many eminent historians and scientists. This film is a detective story which examines the authenticity of a piece of cloth believed to be the material that was wrapped around the body of Jesus Christ 2000 years ago. How has it survived this length of time and why has this compelling image bewildered so many people for centuries? The film is a study which uncovers many mysteries.

Valley Christian Center is located at 1404 W. Gladstone in San Dimas.

Shooting Stars

Taking indoor stage photos not difficult

By JERRY WINDLE
Copley News Service

One of the problems new photographers often have is overcomplicating a situation. In other words, they make something difficult which really isn't. As a result, they often end up with poor results in the final pictures.

Photographing indoor events such as rock concerts, ice shows, circuses and other shows is such a problem.

I am sure you have attended some of these and seen people shooting off flashbulbs from the top of the auditorium. You may think they are crazy since the flash is only useful up to about 10 feet away from a subject. However, would you be surprised to learn they often come up with usable pictures?

Why? The flash is ineffective at a great distance, but when you insert the flash into a pocket camera, the shutter automatically goes to a slower shutter speed. It is the slow shutter speed that improves the exposure, not the use of the flashbulb. A burned-out bulb would work just as well, since it is only acting to change the shutter speed.

The point is that it does not require special equipment or superfast film to capture these events. Using regular film and a shutter speed which is slow, but still usable in a hand-held situation, can produce good results.

Photographer Peter Koeleman made photos similar to the one seen at right using a technique which I will describe.

The first piece of advice he offers is to disregard the automatic exposure system on your camera. The problem arises when aiming at a performer lighted by spotlight. In this situation, the performer usually is against a black background which dominates the viewfinder. When this occurs, the exposure meter tries to compensate by giving an average exposure, and this will overexpose the performer.

Koeleman says this often is a difference of roughly two full f-stops.

The photo similar to the one shown here was made using ASA 400 color-negative film using an exposure of 1/60th or 1/125th at f-2.8. There was no "push" processing involved during the development stage.

The shutter speed at 1/60th is still within the hand-held range for most photographers. Using a slower film, say ASA 200 in a slide film, still would enable you to use a speed of 1/30th of a second with little trouble.

One thing to keep in mind is that the lighting is almost always the same at all of these events — carbon-arc spotlights. After awhile it becomes obvious when these lights are at their brightest. These are the times to make your pictures.

When the stage is covered in deep reds or blues there is a lower light level than the white light which obviously is the brightest. The rest of the light balance falls in between.

When using slide film, you should stick with the daylight emulsion, since it will give you slightly warmer or redder colors.

Remember, though, that often the lighting can get pretty bizarre. When this happens, you don't have to worry about getting the skin tones correct, since they will be colored from the lights.

Actually, it is this weird, off-color that gives the atmosphere of a live concert to your photos.

Remember that the exposures listed here are only suggested starting points. Check the sheet packed with the film for further information. Most fast-emulsion films have listed suggested exposure times for different low-light situations, such as indoor events, so check that closely.

The ability to hand-hold the camera at speeds down to 1/30th of a second depends on whether you are using up to a normal 50mm for the 35mm format.

Remember when using the telephoto lens that they not only magnify the image, but any camera movement as well. It will be to your advantage to brace the camera somehow when shooting with a telephoto.

'Writes of Spring'

Journalism contest scheduled

Forty-one awards will be presented to journalists at the Press Club of Southern California's fifth annual "Writes of Spring" awards banquet, to be held March 23, at the Diamond Bar Country Club.

Twelve members of the Greater Los Angeles Press Club judged the 310 entries received for the awards contest. The winner in each of 20 categories will be awarded a plaque and a cash prize of $25.

A sweepstakes trophy and an additional $100 in cash will be presented to the best of the winners. Runners-up receive a framed certificate.

Entertainment at the banquet will be provided by magician Bob Richards, a Pomona High School teacher who has performed at the Magic Castle in Hollywood and is currently entertaining at the Magic Lamp Inn in Rancho Cucamonga. Music during the social hour and dinner will be performed by Ed Misquez.

Twenty-five sponsors contributed a total of $1,475 for prizes for the banquet, according to Mrs. Helen Eisworth, chairperson. They include Aerojet ElectroSystems Co., Air California, Allstate Insurance Co., American Airlines, General Telephone Co., Great Western Financial Corp., Pacific Southwest Airlines, Progress-Bulletin, Southern California Edison Co., United Airlines, The Daily Report, Ontario, Graber's Olive House, Lockheed Aircraft Service Co., Montclair Plaza, Albertson's Food Centers, The Arbor Restaurant, Chino Champion, Continental Airlines, The Creative Press.

Mona's Dress Shops, Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan, Sunkist Growers, Inc., Town Center Fabrics of Upland, Upland Chamber of Commerce, and the Upland Retail Merchants Association.

The Press Club of Southern California now has more than 100 members. Serving with Mrs. Eisworth on the "Writes of Spring" committee are Richard Peraza, contest and judges; Phyllis Cannon, banquet arrangements; Garth Ellwood, entertainment; George Adams, reservations; and Nancy York, publicity.

Others assisting are Teresa Hinds, Al Dubiel, Walt Orvis, Kay Presto, Peter Wong, and Bill Freeman, club president.

Think of SAFETY...

Master magician Bob Richards will present a program of comedy and mystery at The Press Club of Southern California's "Writes of Spring" awards banquet to be held March 23 at the Diamond Bar Country Club.

Thinking about taking a class?

Ballroom Dance
A newly scheduled ballroom dance class sponsored by the Claremont Human Services department will begin March 15. The six-week session will be held at Taylor Hall from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. The cost for this six-week session is $15.50 per person.

Allen David is the instructor. He will be teaching the fox trot, swing, waltz and cha cha.
Registration is being taken at the human services office, Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. The office is located in Memorial Park, 840 N. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont.

For more information, call 624-4531 during office hours.
Extension classes
Courses in jogging, home spas, Mexican art and dog behavior are included in the UCR Extension free spring schedule of classes available on campus or by calling the extension office, 787-4105. Written requests mailed to University of California Extension, Riverside, 92521 will be answered promptly.

Most courses are open for the quarter which begins March 26. One and two-day seminars for professionals, business-minded and the general public span a variety of subject areas. Other courses meet weekly for the full semester. Experts in specialized fields are called from throughout the United States to teach the subject matter.

The free catalogue includes an enrollment form and complete information on admission, credits, fees and the various certificate programs offered. Prospective students may also enroll by phone when using BankAmericard, Visa or Master Charge. The extension office number above is for all course information.

Tap and Acrobatics

The spring session for children's tap and acrobatic classes, sponsored by the Claremont Human Services Department will begin March 14 at the Baseline Recreation Center, located at 421 W. Baseline.

Classes include tiny tot tap, for children 3 to 5 years old, beginning and intermediate tap for children age 6 to teens, acrobatics for children 5 through teens, and modern jazz for children 8 years and older.

Mrs. Welthalee Keenan is the instructor. Registration is being taken at the Memorial Park office located at 840 N. Indian Hill Blvd., Monday through Friday, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

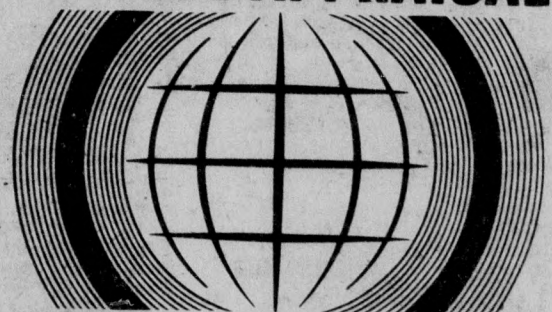

For more information call 624-4531 during office hours.

For centuries, women have been occupied with quilting as a needlework art form. Bernardette Cullen shows samples of some of the quilts she has obtained in her travels throughout the Southern states. She will offer a quilting class through the Ontario Recreation Department on Thursdays from March 29 through May 17 from 9 a.m. to noon. Registration for this and all other classes in the recreation department's spring session will be open March 12 through March 23 at the recreation office, 217 S. Lemon Ave., Ontario. Call 986-1151, extension 242. (Staff photo)

CBMWD plans to file lawsuit to regain full taxing authority

By PETER WONG
Staff Writer

The Chino Basin Municipal Water District plans to file suit to regain its full taxing authority so it can pay for construction and expansion of regional sewage treatment plants.

If it loses that authority completely, the district is prepared to argue in court, it will not be able to raise enough money to comply with its 1972 contract with local governments for management of the West End sewage treatment program.

If the courts uphold the district's position, the owner of a home valued at $50,000 may have to pay $60 or so in additional property taxes. But the taxes could not be collected until sometime after July 1.

The district's suit is seen as a legal test of whether Proposition 13 can invalidate a tax rate that enables a local government to comply with a contract other than a voter-approved bond issue.

The county auditor-controller's office refused to impose the tax rate requested by the district. It said the contract was not among the exemptions permitted by the state constitutional amendment from the property tax limit.

The district's tax rate for construction would have amounted to 57.1 cents per $100 of assessed valuation for the 1978-79 financial year.

The district is seeking an order in San Bernardino Superior Court that will force the auditor-controller's office to levy the tax rate.

That would raise more than $5 million for the district. That compares with the $2 million or so the district is receiving as its share of property taxes remaining to all local governments after Proposition 13.

Without a source of substantial income, "it kills our opportunity to provide additional sewage treatment capacity," Ray W. Ferguson, the district's general manager, said.

"We may have to scale the (construction) program back. We may not be able to build everything we would like to."

The district board and local governments endorsed a $60 million plan last year for the expansion of regional sewage treatment plants in Ontario and Chino.

The expansion would provide enough capacity for the West End's growing population through the 1990s.

The shortage of sewage treatment capacity has been the key factor in limiting home construction and population growth for the past two years.

The regional plant in Ontario is being expanded from a daily capacity of 14 million to 24.5 million gallons. That project will be completed sometime next year. But most of that additional capacity will be committed by that time.

The regional plant in Chino has been expanded from a daily capacity of 3 million gallons to 5 million. All of that capacity is being used by thousands of new homes connected to municipal sewer systems.

The 1972 contract between the district and local governments envisioned property taxes as the chief means of paying for regional construction projects.

Even if the district wins a court order that allows it to impose its full taxing authority, Ferguson said he hopes local governments will agree to other ways of raising money for expansion projects.

Chief among these is the charge proposed for each new home connected to a municipal sewer system. An advisory committee to the district has suggested the figure of $925.

At the rate of 3,000 new homes each year, the one-time-only charge could raise almost $2.8 million for new construction.

City councils in Ontario and Upland have agreed with the concept of a connection charge — Ontario levies $300, Upland $225 — but have not endorsed the $925 figure.

The county board of supervisors and the Chino City Council will consider Supervisor Robert O. Townsend's proposal for a $1,000 connection charge, the money from which would go toward expansion of the Chino plant.

Larry Walker, a Chino City Council member, said the connection charge should be imposed even if the district regains its taxing authority. He said owners of new homes should pay for their share of new sewage treatment capacity.

Two other proposals to raise money for sewage treatment construction have been offered. But local officials do not hold out much hope for them.

One would allow the district to obtain a share of state surplus money, "but I'm not holding my breath," Ferguson said.

The other would be a fee charged to all homeowners. But the fee has been challenged by a citizens' group as "illegal" and not in conformance with Proposition 13.

Upland man sentenced in rape case

An Upland man who was found guilty of assault with intent to commit rape has been sentenced to seven years in state prison.

Joseph George Hernandez was also sentenced Feb. 28 by West Valley Superior Court Judge Richard Garner to six years in state prison for burglary and seven years in state prison for assault with a deadly weapon.

Those sentences, however, were stayed pending appeal.

Hernandez, 28, with addresses in Upland and Ontario, was convicted by a jury in January. Two allegations that he inflicted great bodily injury were also found to be true.

According to trial testimony, Hernandez broke into an apartment on the 1400 block of east D Street in Ontario May 25.

He broke a window to get inside and attacked the elderly female occupant, prosecutors said. The victim received severe facial injuries.

Hernandez was arrested at the scene. He was rearrested in January for investigation of attempted murder, but the charges were later dropped.

He has been sent to the California Institution for Men at Chino.

Low-interest home repair loans ready

Low-interest loans for home repair and refinancing are available to persons of low and moderate incomes in six unincorporated areas of San Bernardino County, including the Chino Hills community of Los Serranos.

The loans are available because of the county's participation in the neighborhood preservation program run by the California Housing Finance Agency.

Further information about the program may be obtained by writing the county Office of Community Development, 1111 E. Mill St., Building 1, San Bernardino 92415.

Speech contest winner named

Speaking on the topic of "Who Am I?" Alta Loma High School student Alice Hall took first place honors at the Cucamonga District Lions Club student speaker contest for 1978-79. Other finalists were Barbara Frame and Carol Villoni, who spoke on the same topic.

The girls were coached by Louise Pavey and Ruth Parker, and the contest was held under the direction of George Parker, chairman of the contest. Jeff King, Larry Miller and Fran Romanshenkel served as judges.

Miss Hall is eligible to advance to the zone finals, set for March 20.

Sciatica - A Painful Experience for Anyone
By Dr. Wes Helzer, D.C.

Sciatica, often mistakenly referred to as a disease, is actually a symptom of nerve pressure or an irritation of the sciatic nerve caused by a physical injury, malfunction, or disease.

Since the sciatic nerve is the largest and longest nerve in the human body, it is not surprising that many authorities consider it the most susceptible to injury.

While sciatica can occur in either sex, seventy-two per cent of its victims are men.

Whether caused by over-exertion, a fall down a stairway, or a kick from a mule, the result is the same...pain.

The pain may be only minor in its first stages, or it may be so crippling and intense as to make strong

Pain may appear anywhere in the region of the sciatic nerve, from the low back down to the feet.

Applying heat or cold to the painful area, or gulping pain-killing drugs might bring temporary relief at best. But the problem will remain.

As a specialist in nerves and spinal disorders, the modern Doctor of Chiropractic knows that nerve interference in the low back is the actual cause of the problem. His training and experience enable him to treat the cause, not just administer temporary measures aimed at relieving the symptoms. With the nerve interference eliminated, the sciatic nerve can once again function properly! eliminating the pain and discomfort naturally from within.

EXPOSE YOUR HOME NATIONALLY.

The Moving Machine. We're linked to ERA® offices coast-to-coast through the Moving Machine and with it, in minutes we can track down an interesting home, or an interested buyer, anywhere in America.

If you want to buy a home in another city you can see pictures and get complete data on available homes in that area, all from the comfort of our office.

If you're selling a home, buyers nationally as well as locally will have an opportunity to hear about it.

With this bigger buying market you should sell your home faster and easier.

When you're ready to move, expose your home through the selling power of the Moving Machine and ERA®.
